ATTEMPTED ROBBERY

The West Liberty Grocery Company doing business in the Masonic building on Main Street had been entered twice and robbed within the last few months. The third attempt was a Waterloo. Near midnight on last Friday a traveling man drove into Mrs. Baldwin's Tourist Home to stay all night. This place is just across the street from the wholesale house and the man noticed goings on there which aroused his suspicions. He notified Mrs. Baldwin and Mrs. Baldwin promptly called the manager, J. P. Oney, who with his son-in-law, J. K. Bowles got into their car and with a shot gun set out to protect their property. The suspicious characters took alarm when they heard the Oney car approaching and left post haste. But not until both Mr. Oney and Mr. Bowles had identified the car they were using. Knowing that the car would finally return to West Liberty they found the Sheriff and later in the night arrested three local boys charging them with the attempted robbery. The names of the boys, all local, are of court record and not here given for the reason that it is the policy of our community and courts to wink the off eye and proceed to forget all about it.

Ratskeller Raided

The "Ratskeller," long known as a place of ill repute, located in the basement of the Cole building, and operating as a dance hall, was raided by Sheriff S. H. Lykins and Town Marshall Sherman Lewis, last week. The officers found a generous supply of untaxed liquor. Easterling and Morris operators, were charged with bootlegging and taken to Morehead for examining trial, and were there bound over to the Federal Court at Jackson to answer the charges.

It is the intention of the League to check up on the handling of law violations and to help and encourage officials in the discharge of their full duties.

PRICE-NIPPER

McKinney officiating. A large crowd of friends and neighbors were present for the occasion. About twenty-five were present for the wedding dinner. After entertainment with music the couple left for their home at Dehart.

Bold Robbery

At or near high noon on last Friday a petty sneak thief entered the smoke house of Ollie Blair on Glen Avenue and carried off two hams. CONTINUES GOOD STUDENT

Alden Lewis, graduate of West Liberty High School, and now a student in Morehead College, made a perfect standing for the first semester 1938-39, getting "A's" in all his subjects. Mr. Lewis, a senior in the Science Department, has never failed to be on the honor roll since his enrollment in college.

Very Good Friends

Our very good friends Mr. and Mrs. M. C. DeHaven, natives of Morgan county but for nearly 25 years now residents away from here and now located at Middletown, Ohio, wish to be remembered to their friends here through the Courier.

T. H. Caskey is improving nicely.

GIRL SCOUT CABIN

Have you noticed an air of intense excitement around each Girl Scout that you have seen the last few days? Well, there is a reason for it, and that reason is that they are building a cabin, which is to be their very own, where they may play, work and have their meetings.

From the goodness of his heart, Bernard Whitt has given us a ninety-nine year lease on the hill back of where he lives, and the cost to us is exactly nothing, except for our everlasting love and gratitude, which will be paid with interest. A sixty foot square is to be fenced in where we will build our cabin and have our yard and croquet field.

Ova O. Haney and the Board of Education have donated roofing and bricks from the old school building, for our roof, fireplace and chimney. Judge Henry has given us the lumber for our foundation and joists. Ray Wells has helped with our plans and figures, and Gordon Adkins has not only promised us his own labor but has gotten several other men to give several days labor each. Dr. Harold Nickell, Dr. Ray Poynter, and J. Blaine Nickell have given us money to help pay for hauling and other expenses.

With such friends as these and the knowledge that we can depend on the cooperation of every father in whatever way he can help, it won't be many days before our cabin may be seen from town.

Our plans call for a room 16 ft. by 40 ft. with one long side screened, which will be the front. A large fireplace will be in the center of the opposite side, and there will be arrangements made for all sorts of recreation, both inside and out, including an outside fireplace where we may cook.

If ever a troop of Girl Scouts deserved a place of their own it is the troop of West Liberty, for each girl has worked faithfully and untiringly, in being self supporting, and doing what they could to help their community and much has been accomplished in the few months which they have been organized. With this new incentive it is hard telling what they will do in the future.

Wandall Cooney III

Mrs. Rosebud Cooney of Soperton, Wisconsin, was called to the bedside of her little 15 year old daughter, Wandall Cooney, who is seriously sick with double pneumonia at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Granvil Howard, of Morehead. Dr. I. M. Garred is treating her. Wandall is a student of the Morehead High School and is a favorite among her teachers and schoolmates all of whom wish her a speedy recovery and hope she will be back with them soon.

Lee Bayes has purchased the Henry Carr Rose, Jr., property on Main Street, by the Commercial Bank and Mr. and Mrs. Rose will move into the dwelling, formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Watson, in the east part of town by the For the east part of town.

Italian soldiers may be able to end the war in Spain, but who will keep it ended?

James Perry was in Ashland the first part of this week on business.

ALL TENANCY IS NOT BAD

"Working on the principle that all tenancy is not necessarily bad, the Farm Security Administration is offering its services to landlords and tenants who wish to work out plans to improve their leasing arrangements," said County Supervisor, F. H. Byars, in charge of rural rehabilitation and tenant purchase programs of the FSA in Morgan and Elliott counties.

Copies of a new flexible farm lease, and a leaflet describing the new lease and pointing out the advantage to both landlord and tenant of using the written lease, may be had by applying at Mr. Byars' office, West Liberty. This material is now available to all interested farmers regardless of whether they are FSA borrowers. "In the past we have been stressing the use of written leases, and leases with extension clauses, among farmers to whom we extended credit; as a result of experience in the field and careful study by experts in Washington assigned to work on this problem of tenure, a flexible farm lease which it is believed covers essentials necessary to provide a successful landlord-tenant relationship has been prepared and we are now offering this lease to farmers generally, Mr. Byars said.

The work in tenure improvement supplements the program which is helping a limited number of tenants to buy farms of their own.

"While farm ownership is an ideal to look forward to, thousands of tenant farmers will gradually learn to do better farming and to take more interest in the farms on which they live, by the use of written leases worked out to the mutual advantage of owner and tenant," Mr. Byars pointed out.

A large percent of tenants and sharecroppers now have only verbal agreements and no assurance that they may remain on the same farm beyond the year. The 1935 census showed that about a million families had changed farms within less than a year.

"Any arrangement which will increase the security, contentment and happiness of the tenant family will increase its interest in the care and maintenance of the farm which it occupies and will, therefore, safeguard the interests and investment of the owner."

Mr. Byars said it is realized that it will take considerable time for the general adoption of more stable tenure, but many landlords and tenants already have seen the advantage of using long-term leases. "With assurance that a tenant may remain on the farm for a number of years, a better farm plan can be made and sound farm plans, of course, are the basis for ample farm credit."

HEALTH PROTECTION

In another column will be found an interesting and worthwhile advertisement of the Hazel Green Hospital.

Read this item over carefully and be sure you understand it. Here is an opportunity to keep alive a hospital in this community. Some one individual, organization, lodge, Sunday school class can take out insurance for a needy family. This is an opportunity to help and not put the burden on any one individual. The Hospital so far has in most cases undertook the burden alone. But it is not possible to continue under that plan.

A small monthly payment assures you in case you need protection. In case you do not need the service you are helping someone who has not been so fortunate as you.

HAS SAMPSON REFORMED?

Flem D. Sampson who when he was governor of Kentucky pardoned every criminal that he heard off and turned them out to prey on the citizens of Kentucky is now a Circuit Judge in Knox and adjoining counties. In instructing his grand jury for the spring session of his court in Knox county the judge told the jury that the time has come when decent people must show more respect for law and less respect and consideration for criminals who prey on society.

Suspects Released

The two parties who were arrested and placed in jail as suspects in the Cannel City bank robbery several weeks ago have been released as there was not evidence enough to hold them.

CLAIMS PRIMARIES BAD

Philadelphia.—The direct primary system must be abandoned if democratic government is to be saved, according to Judge Edwin O. Lewis of Philadelphia, who addressed the recent 124th annual stockholders' meeting of the Athenaeum, ancient library here.

"The average integrity and ability in the nominees for public office has steadily fallen since the old convention method gave way to the direct choice of candidates by popular vote," Judge Lewis declared.

"While no lover of virtue, the party boss of days gone by had too much regard for the decency and too much pride to give his backing to the thoroughly unqualified kind of men and women who have managed to ride into important office in recent years.

"One high Democratic leader told me he was ashamed and embarrassed by the necessity of electing and working with many of the candidates who obtained nomination in the upheaval of the first Roosevelt victory in Philadelphia.

"He rightfully foresaw that such material would discredit the Democrats. Popular Government fell to an all-time low in Pennsylvania because of the lack of censorship of primary candidates. The State Legislature had in its membership a large proportion of poorly educated and thoroughly irresponsible political accidents."

E. W. DAY

The community was sadly grieved and shocked Sunday morning about 10:30 o'clock when one of our best citizens, E. W. Day, died suddenly. He had been in bad health a few years, but was feeling as well as usual and was sitting reading. His wife was close by and spoke to him and he failed to answer. She looked at him and saw his head drop and she laid him back in the floor and summoned help but he passed away before the nearest help could get there. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Bill Day and was born December 11, 1873 and was married to Miss Minnie Lewis April 26, 1899. To this union were born three children, Mrs. John Henry of West Liberty, Arlie and Viley at home; two brothers, Jim Frank of Bay City, Texas; and Isaac of Frederick, Oklahoma; one sister, Mrs. Jim Tom Wells of Cune; and seven grand children besides a host of relatives and friends. He was a good citizen, a kind loving husband and father and a good neighbor. He will be sadly missed by all. He had many friends and had been reading the Bible a lot the past few years and seemed interested in the word of God; was a good moral man.

The funeral was preached at Green Lewis' home by Rev. Harlan Murphy and Rev. Milfred Whitt at about 3 o'clock Monday. He was interred in the T. H. McClure cemetery. A FRIEND

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Mrs. Martha Caskey of Long Branch was not very surprised Tuesday when some of her children and grandchildren dropped in to help her celebrate her 82d birthday. She was all prepared with cake and chicken and other good things to eat which she herself had fixed. This with what the guests brought made up a very delicious dinner. The cake was decorated with candles and it took Mrs. Caskey several blows to put them out. The group sang "Happy Birthday," and after dinner all sat and listened to Grandmother tell of her girlhood adventures. She is in quite good health for all her years and appreciated the many nice gifts she received.

Those present were: Mrs. Tommy Gibbs, Miss Hessie Gibbs, Mrs. Ransom Caskey, Mrs. T. H. Caskey, and Miss Nell Caskey and Justin Rowland.

Help Find My Boy

My little boy, Emmet Clark, 13 years old, ran away from home about seven weeks ago. Please help me find him. The boy's stepfather's name is John Ross. The boy has blond hair, blue eyes, fair skin and has a scar in the corner of one eye. When he left home he was very badly dressed. I am the boy's mother and much troubled about him. If any reader of this paper knows anything of this boy, please let me know at once. MAGGIE ROSS, Cannel City, Ky.

FARMERS' COLUMN

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

Pendleton county farmers are co-operating with the Farm Bureau in forming a sheep protective association. According to a survey, there are between 14,000 and 15,000 sheep on farms in the county, and the quality of the animals is being raised steadily.

Negotiations to ship cream to a Carbondale, Ill., creamery for a 3-cent per pound premium on butterfat are being carried on by Livingston county farmers. They believe they can save on freight as well as get higher prices.

Lyon county farmers have agreed to produce 65 acres of strawberries, to be sold through the Cumberland & Ohio River Association with Marlinton, Ky., as the shipping point. Forty percent of the 65 acres will be set this spring.

The sheep industry is receiving increased interest in Owsley county, where it is still relatively new. Farmers expect to have several hundred more high-grade ewes after lambing season this year. The goal is several thousand ewes within two years.

In Elliott county, approximately 10,000 chicks have been bought. Many poultrymen bought early chicks for sale later as broilers, and report that so far 95 percent of the chicks have survived. A poultry school attracted wide attention.

Lewis Wilson, Russell county, is feeding 39 beef cattle a ration of corn silage, corn, clover hay and cottonseed meal. Last fall Wilson made a trench silo in which he now has 75 tons of silage. He expects to make cattle a primary source of revenue.

STRAWBERRY BORER

Suggestions for controlling the crown borer, a pest that has troubled Kentucky strawberry growers for the past 40 years, are made in a new bulletin of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station.

New strawberry plantings should be at least 350 yards from old infested patches, as tests show that beetles can travel 300 yards without feed. Plants for new patches should be dug between Dec. 1 and March 1.

Certified plants are preferred for setting new patches. Plants from infested patches can be used for starting borer-free patches provided they are dug before March 1 and cleaned and washed to rid them of adhering adults. Plants from patches found to be free from crown borers are preferred. Even certified plants should be dug early and cleaned.

Set strawberry patches only on land that has been in cultivation for a year or more.

Destroy all berry patches after the second year of picking.
Destroy the common wild host of the crown borer, common cinquefoil, or five finger.

BLUE MOLD

The College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky is making available to Kentucky farmers a circular describing blue mold of tobacco and outlining methods for its control. Blue mold has been prevalent in plant beds in most of the state last year. It may be expected to appear again this season, and possibly do considerable damage unless checked.

The circular gives details about the disease and tells how P. D. B. and benzol and sprays may be used to combat blue mold.

Recommendations include the use of new plant bed sites this year, and the location of beds in sunny places, where no part will be shaded.

Spraying the plants when small with a bluestone-lime solution tends to delay the appearance of blue mold. It is also recommended that the canvas be removed in the morning, so the leaves will dry off.

Recovery of diseased plants is helped by the application of a solution of 10 pounds of nitrate of soda in 50 gallons of water, using 5 gallons per 100 square feet of bed, and following with an equal amount of clear water to prevent burning.

HATCHING EGGS IN KENTUCKY

More than 300,000 chickens that have been selected and blood-tested for pullorum disease will supply hatching eggs this season to 50 U.S. approved and certified hatcheries in Kentucky, according to J. E. Humphrey of the State College of Agriculture. These hatcheries can produce at one time about 2,300,000 chicks in accordance with the requirements of the Kentucky Poultry Improvement Association, which is the official agency designated by the United States Department of Agriculture to carry on the work of the National Poultry Improvement Plan in Kentucky.

The national improvement plan, as described by Mr. Humphrey, seeks to reduce the losses of chicks from pullorum disease, to improve production and breeding qualities, and to identify breeding stock, hatching eggs and baby chicks with respect to quality, by describing them in terms uniformly accepted in all parts of the United States.

The plan also means that each bird in an approved flock is selected for breed characteristics, size, vigor and production qualities and tested for pullorum disease by trained men. Only standard breeds are eligible to qualify as breeding stock. Selected birds are banded with sealed and numbered leg bands and all cull birds removed from breeding flocks. Large, well-shaped eggs weighing 23 or more ounces to the dozen are set to produce approved chicks. In certified hatcheries, eggs weighing not less than 24 ounces to the dozen are used.

DIVISION OF GAME AND FISH

Frankfort, Ky.—The Division of Game and Fish is now having a biological survey made of all streams in Kentucky. Many of our leading states have had such a program in operation for a number of years and Kentucky's program began on April first, 1937 with Minor E. Clark, biologist and graduate student of the University of Kentucky in charge of the survey.

Major James Brown, Director of the Division, who has long been associated with the survey work, upon his arrival in Kentucky saw the need of the study here and began laying plans for the creation of a biological survey in the Commonwealth. By the time all the plans were made, equipment bought and received, it was in the middle of July before actual field work began.

Numbers of fishermen believe all that is necessary to insure good fishing is for the Division of Game and Fish to stock any stream with sufficient numbers, the quantity of fish released, thus converting a here-to-fore unproductive stream into a fisherman's paradise after allowing for a period of growth. If such were the case, all that would be necessary for such an angler's paradise would be the water. This is far from the truth as has been proven time and time again. Our fish are highly restricted in that the type of bottom, the amount of vegetation, the temperature, the amount and type of pollution present, etc., are all regulating factors as to whether reasonable success can be expected.

The first purpose of the survey is to formulate a systematic stocking policy with the proper species in accordance with the requirements of each stream or lake. The requirements include food, water temperature, vegetation, cover, pressure in water and proper bottom.

Another primary purpose of the survey is to determine the need for stream or lake improvement. To the casual observer a given stream may possess a satisfactory environment but after stocking very unsatisfactory results may be obtained. Fish must have cover and food just the same as our birds and animals.

The survey will determine if the existing fishing regulations are suitable, and if not, to recommend proper changes.

During the years 1937-38 Clark made a survey of the Big Sandy River watershed, the Tygart Creek watershed and the Kinniconick Creek watershed. All species of fish were collected as to food habits, diseases, growth and etc. The fish which were found to do the most good in the above mentioned streams were the Muskallunge, Pickerel, Small-mouth and Large-mouth Bass.

Clark urges that all high school science teachers who are interested in the identity of various species of fish to send them to the Division of Game and Fish at Frankfort and the proper identification, classification, and scientific names would be made and sent back to the teacher.

A survey of the Little Sandy River and the Licking River watersheds will be made by Clark this spring and summer—James J. Gilpin, Division of Game and Fish.

WASHINGTON NOTES

Useless!

Answering a suggestion from Representative Louis Ludlow, of Indiana, that this country call a disarmament conference, Secretary of State Hull expresses his opinion that the present does not appear opportune and that with other nations "undertaking huge and expensive armament programs," the United States Government must make certain of the adequacy of its defense.

Aggressors

An amendment to the Neutrality Act, proposed by Senator Thomas of Utah, would permit action by the President and Congress to assist countries attacked by others in violation of treaties to which the United States is signatory. Under his proposal, the President and Congress, by a majority vote of both branches, could define an aggressor and thereafter supply arms to the country attacked.

Pope Pius XI

For the first time in its history, Congress adjourned last week out of respect to the memory of Pope Pius XI, adopting resolutions paying tribute to him as a man of peace. In the past, the House and Senate have adjourned on the death of Queen Victoria, King George V and King Edward VII of Great Britain; King Albert of Belgium; President Doumer of France.

Press

Declaring that "governmental control of the press would be a calamity and the very idea is abhorrent to me," Secretary Ickes recently continued his discussion on freedom of the press in this country by asserting that "owing to economic tie-ups, our press is not as free as it should be in a democracy," and quoted the utterances of several editors to support his assertion.

Mercy Flight

Major Caleb W. Haynes, of the U. S. Army Air Corps, has received the Distinguished Flying Cross in recognition of the flight of the bomber C-15 from Langley Field, Virginia, to Santiago, Chile, carrying 3,250 pounds of Red Cross medical supplies to the earthquake stricken region. The Army plane made the flight under unfavorable flying weather, in unfavorable weather hours, in twenty-nine hours and fifty-three minutes flying time. Actually, it required forty-nine hours and eighteen minutes, but stops for fuel and inspection in the Canal Zone and at Lima, Peru, took up the extra time.

Air Strength

What is believed to be an accurate estimate of the relative air strength of the world was given by Representative May, of Kentucky, chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, in explaining his bill to enlarge the Army Air Corps. Mr. May said that Germany has 9,800 first-line military planes, Great Britain 7,100, the Soviet Union 5,500, Italy 4,000, the United States 3,500, Japan 3,100, and France 2,700.

Few Voters

Statistics obtained from insurance companies were presented to the monopoly investigating committee last week to show that few policy holders in mutual companies participate in the nomination and selection of officers. In a period of three years, figures show that the twelve largest mutual companies received votes for directors from only 0.01 to 2.51 per cent of the policy holders eligible to participate in the election. For example, one company with 5,250,000 possible votes got only 1,169 votes actually cast for directors.

Praises Hull

Calling Secretary Hull "a great reformer in the matter of trade" and asserting that his service to the world is "unparalleled by any other individual in any country," Prime Minister MacKenzie King of Canada, hailed renewed Canadian-American trade treaties as a contribution toward economic disarmament and said that if other democratic countries derived incidental benefits from it, through most-favored-nation treatment, democratic Canada will not regret it.

HORSE OR TRACTOR EXPENSE IS SAME

Facts Brought Out in an Analysis of Records.

The average expense a crop acre for man labor, horse and machinery use on farms is practically the same for horse farms, standard tractor farms and general-purpose tractor farms.

This is one of the facts on changes in the use of farm power brought out in an analysis of records kept from 1930 to 1938 in co-operation with the department of agricultural economics, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois. A summary of the analysis is reported by P. E. Johnston, associate chief in agricultural economics, in a recent issue of Illinois Farm Economics, published by the department of agricultural economics.

Other studies indicate that farmers who continue to operate their farms with horses are more efficient in the use of horse power, it is explained. The records also indicate that the expense for man labor has been reduced only slightly by the addition of tractors. In some cases tractors have enabled operators to do a larger volume of business and in others to provide for more leisure on the part of farm workers.

Another fact brought out in the study is that farmers are using almost two fewer horses per acre a farm in 1938 than in 1928. Furthermore the percentage of farm horses more than 20 years of age is twice as high in 1938 as in 1926, but the proportion of horses less than four years of age is also higher. From 1930 to 1934 about 26 per cent of the accounting farms in central Illinois used horses only, whereas in 1936 the proportion had declined to 14 per cent.

The shift in breeding operations on farms has been related to changes in prices of farm products and of horse feeds. During the period 1930 to 1934, when the price of farm products dropped much more drastically than that of tractors, there was practically no shifting from horses to tractors on the farms included in the study. The percentage of farms operated with horses averaged about 26 per cent each year.

During this period, however, there was a shift from standard tractors to general-purpose tractors, and this shift had an effect on numbers of horses, since general-purpose tractors which are used for cultivating row crops replace more horses than do the standard type.

Sheep Drenching a Step To Stronger Lamb Crops

An important step in getting the breeding flock of sheep ready for producing next year's crop of lambs is to drench them for stomach worms, says W. E. Morris, extension animal husbandman, University farm.

"Stomach worms annually cause serious loss to sheep raisers," stresses Morris, "and now is the time to take the first step to reduce this damage. Sheepmen may materially benefit their breeding flocks by drenching for worms before they go far with their winter feeding."

"Drenching will reduce the infestation of worms, and will result in a more thrifty flock throughout the winter. The ewes will make better use of their feed, their fleeces will be heavier, they will be more thrifty and drop stronger lambs in the spring and will give more milk."

Wet or Dry Mash

Wet mash will stimulate egg production in laying birds but it is not as safe to feed as dry, notes a poultryman in the Montreal Herald. Wet mash must be fed with care because the birds will eat too much of it and probably interfere with normal digestion. It is more likely to bring on digestive disorders than the feeding of dry mash. Most large poultry farms are doing away with wet mashes completely. We would recommend the regular laying mash in hoppers rather than an over-supply of bran. The regular laying mash is a well balanced ration and will give much better results, so far as egg production is concerned.

About the Farm

The poultry business is represented on more farms the world over than any other agricultural enterprise.

Many rural communities solve the problem of fire protection by forming a fire district. They contract with nearby towns.

Protection from dampness and from drafts are the two requirements that most poultry houses fail to meet.

The most practical and lasting result of rat repression are gained through a campaign to rat-proof all buildings.

Since beef cattle require the same type of pasture as dairy cattle, similar methods of soil fertilization and grazing management should be followed.

Business Guides

IDEAS for improvement of a product or the operation of a business often come from employees. The prudent employer always is eager to learn of new ideas. He encourages his workers to make suggestions. There have been instances where a company has received and adopted suggestions without rewarding the originators in any manner. This leads to ill-feeling and sometimes even to serious labor trouble. Credit should always be given to employees when it is warranted. Employee loyalty will result.

Most forward-looking business owners and operators encourage employees to improve themselves by study. Thousands of firms recommend certain courses of training and pay part or all of the cost. This is for the employee shows profit for the employer because it results in ambitious, industrious workers always being available to fill positions which require an unusual knowledge or exceptional skill. There is no substitute for a trained worker or office employee. In these days the employer cannot devote the time necessary to train employees for advanced positions. Instead, he encourages them to train themselves by study.

Higher positions are always in the reach of those qualified to fill them. The employee who acquires ability to fulfill more than his present duties, already has started on the road to success. If there is any "secret" of success, it is to be prepared when an opportunity comes. The wise business executive knows the persons in his organization who are capable of holding better jobs. The wise employee makes sure he is capable of holding a better job by training himself while occupying his present position.

AS OTHERS SAW THEM

Once in a while it is well for us to see ourselves as others see us and this is what happened to the faculty and students of the Morgan County High School at the chapel exercises last Friday. The first and second grades under the direction of Mrs. Nancy Turner and Mrs. Edna Burton presented a very interesting program in which the high school saw themselves as the first and second grades saw them. Jimmie Mel Haney told in a very oratorical manner the plan of the program and introduced the faculty in a very humorous way. The program announced in an interesting and spicy way by Dickie Black, was as follows: Song, Polly Wolly Doodle—Audience Scripture Reading—Lillian Salyer Prayer—Donna Reid Opening Speech—Jimmie Mel Haney High School Song—First and second grades impersonating Juniors and Seniors. Introduction of Faculty—Jimmie Mel Haney

ATTEND NATIONAL MEETING

Ova O. Haney, county superintendent of schools and W. O. Pelfrey, attendance supervisor, left last Friday to attend the annual meeting of the National Education Association to be held at Cleveland, Ohio. We are sure they will be inspired by this meeting and will profit by it to such an extent that this inspiration and profit will be handed on in such a way as will promote the educational interests of our county. One of the best ways for a county educational unit to make progress is to grow professionally and to meet with other educational units and exchange views and opinions and Mr. Haney is certainly gaining both state and national reputation as an educator by broadening his educational policies. We hope to publish an interesting account of the meeting next week.

P.T.A. Come! Come!

The first and second grades will present a delightful play, "Down on Old McDonald's Farm" at the next regular meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association which will be held Monday evening, March 13, at 7 o'clock in the gymnasium of the Morgan County High School. The public is invited to attend and see the little folk perform. They like to speak to a FULL HOUSE.

CITY FOLKS AT FIDELITY

The difference between country and town people is not so great as it once was, to the credit of both groups. Popular education, county high schools, county farm and home demonstrators, summer camps, district and regional tournaments in athletics and other things, and a freer atmosphere generally account for this. A third of a century ago it was hardly this. Still there were connections between the two groups, as most of the people who lived in town were one generation or less from the soil.

Old Fidelity was poor but proud. It had never been other than a small village, but, like so many of us, it has been better days. As long as the railroad kept away from our county, and it was necessary to go thirty miles or more to reach one, Fidelity remained much as it had been since the earliest settlement. There were two tobacco factories, a water mill near the village, a union church, several stores, and some other attractions, including a Masonic lodge hall. Then came the railroad through the county seat, and gradually the village began to show signs of decadence. Proud yet, in spite of its being off the railroad, it was lacking in any importance except locally. Some of its citizens moved to the county seat or on to other towns and cities. Enough ties were left, however, for the quaint old place to be attractive to visitors, as when some of the old-timers returned for a few days and brought along their families, born elsewhere but taught the special merits of Fidelity.

Local citizens, proud of their well-dressed visitors, brought them to church and Sunday school. One returned visitor dropped a dollar into the collection basket one Sunday, creating a small hurricane of excited whispers. If any of the visitors could be induced to talk, they were asked to teach the adult class or to comment on the lesson. Most of them wisely declined and sat in the Amen-corner and looked pious. Housewives vied with each other in inviting the visitors to Sunday dinner and, in the current phrase, "put the big pot in the little one." Language took a sudden flight upward, for some of us dropped expressions that the teachers had been fighting for years, that is, we dropped them during the time of the visit of the city folks.

If the visit came in week days, we took the city people to see the tobacco factory where the negroes worked and sang. This was probably the most outstanding thing we could do, for there was never anything else quite like this. The negro women sat in rows facing each other and stemmed the tobacco leaves, singing meanwhile spirituals or "white-folks" songs, giving their own musical interpretation to the words. People who visited that old factory have told me in recent years that nothing in their lives made such an impression as this.

For some days after a visit the younger generation put on airs at school because of the famous people who had been to Fidelity. We walked like them and talked like them and envied them immediately. The children who lived in the homes visited were quizzed indefinitely about the great people from the outside world who had strayed into our little remote village. I wonder whether any such excitement could be created anywhere today.—Kentucky Folklore Series.

HOMEMADE COOKIES, CANDY

The Girl Scouts of West Liberty have opened up a candy and cookie shop, in the little building next to the Drug Store. Dr. Gullett has very kindly donated its use to us, and this shop will be open every Saturday from now on.

The cookies and candy are made fresh each Saturday morning, and are sold for twelve cents a dozen. This Saturday they will have doughnuts also.

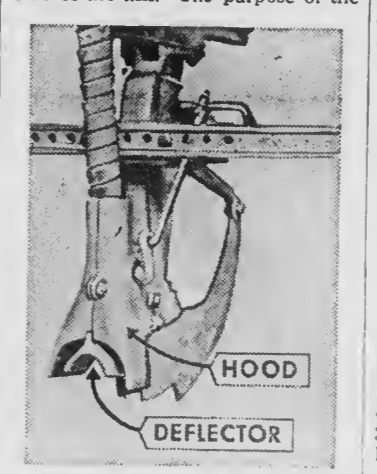

They ask all their friends to visit them or give your order to any Girl Scout, Mrs. Nickell or Mrs. Bryne in advance, and they will deliver it to you.

This money is to be used in building their cabin, which they expect to start within a few days.

CHECKUP OF FARM MACHINERY UNDER WAY FOR '39 CROP

COLUMBUS, OHIO.—With the annual winter checkup of tractors, corn planters, plows and other equipment for planting and handling the 1939 crops under way on millions of farms, a suggestion on how farmers can cash in more effectively on the application of fertilizer by equipping their corn planters with an improved fertilizer attachment is contained in a bulletin issued by the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

Records kept of farm plots fertilized by the improved type of fertilizer depositor showed marked increases in the yield per acre of corn. The newer type depositor shown in the accompanying illustration features a deflector and a hood. The purpose of the deflector is to divide the stream of fertilizer and to deflect one-half of the application to each side of the hill. The purpose of the hood is to widen the furrow opened by the corn planter shoe and to hold back the incoming soil until the fertilizer has reached the bottom of the furrow, thus preventing direct contact with the seed.

In the first year tests were made with the new type depositor, increases were recorded ranging from 11.1 bushels per acre from the use of 100 pounds of fertilizer, to 21.4 bushels from 400 pounds of fertilizer. In the second year, 150 pounds of fertilizer applied with the modern depositor increased the corn yield 19.9 bushels per acre, while 300 pounds boosted the yield by 23.8 bushels.

AGRICULTURAL STATIONS AID SOIL IMPROVEMENT

CHICAGO.—Benefits obtained from growing soil building crops such as alfalfa, clover and most legumes can be greatly increased by the intelligent use of the correct fertilizer. It is pointed out by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"The average practical farmer realizes that obtaining more humus is not just a matter of sowing seed," the report says. "Clover, alfalfa and most legumes which are able to get valuable nitrogen from the air are sensitive to their soil environment. The problem of getting a stand and a crop worth turning under is simplified if the farmer applies mixed fertilizer of the right analysis."

"Agricultural experiment stations under the direction of capable agronomists are continually carrying on experiments with the soil of their states and have very conclusive general reports ready for county agents, active field workers and farmers. They are glad to send them out or to answer any questions sent to them."

Clove Tree an Evergreen
The clove tree is a beautiful evergreen which grows to a height of 40 feet.

SOIL IMPROVEMENT REMEDY FOR DIET DISEASE OF STOCK

CHICAGO.—Restoration of depleted farm land by the use of chemical fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash not only increases crop yields, but helps remedy deficiency disease among livestock caused by a lack of necessary mineral elements in their feed.

Animals reflect the composition of their feeds, observes W. A. Albrecht of the Missouri College of Agriculture, and these in turn reflect the composition of available nutrient supplies of the soils on which they are grown. He declared:

"Animals will persistently graze closely in one area of a pasture while scarcely touching grass in another spot. When confined to soils whose fertility has been depleted, their judgment cannot be exercised and they may become the victims of some deficiency disease."

One of the most frequent and costly diseases acquired by animals fed on land deficient in necessary minerals is "Pica." Cattle suffering this disease have a tendency to chew bones and gnaw wood. Other symptoms are loss of weight, generally unthrifty condition, stiffness in hind quarters and at times in the front quarters, brittle bones that are easily broken, dull eyes and harshness of coat.

On farms where such a mineral deficiency exists in the soil, the use of a fertilizer containing phosphorus lime and potash is recommended by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee as a means of providing the necessary elements to restore the land and provide the plant foods so essential to the diet of livestock.

Valerian, an Old Plant

Valerian was supposed to have been poured in ancient form upon Christ's feet by Mary Magdalene. One of the Hindu legends pertaining to this plant is that a man after planting one of the plants went away for a long visit. He told his wife to care for this plant patiently until he returned. This man dressed as a beggar and came back unexpectedly one day to see if his wife had fulfilled her promise. This was his test of her faithfulness to him. He found the plant in fine condition and they lived happily ever after. Valerian is sometimes used for seasoning in broths.

Paprika Old Food Product

Paprika is one of the oldest food products and has played an important role in history. When ancient Rome was captured by Aleric in 400, it was ransomed by paying 3,000 pounds of paprika, then fabulously valuable.

18.9 Cents of U. S. Farm Dollar Goes for Taxes, Interest and Wages to Hired Help

Spend Only 2½ Cents For Fertilizer.

FARMERS spend almost eight times as much annually for wages to hired help, taxes and interest charges as they do for the purchase of fertilizer to replenish profits on farms determined by expenditures; yield per acre influences cost of production

EVERY expenditure the average farmer makes has a direct or indirect bearing on how profitably he is operating his land, whether it is a new tractor, a truck, seed for his crops or fertilizer to replenish his land. Farmers generally recognize that the yield per acre of crops is the most important factor influencing the cost of production. Higher yields mean lower production costs. Thus farmers are becoming increasingly aware that the use of fertilizers is the most profitable means of increasing their crop yields per acre.

"Gasoline, kerosene and oil for the operation of autos, tractors and trucks accounts for 5.18 cents of the farm dollar, or twice as much as goes for fertilizer. Feed for livestock and seed for crops accounts for 6.22 cents. Containers for produce, spray material and twine cost 1.38 cents, while other current expenditures for farm operation take 2.48 cents.

"Expenditures on such capital items as machinery, tractors and repairs call for 3.57 cents out of the annual farm dollar; autos and trucks account for 2.59 cents and farm buildings and repairs on buildings for 2.05 cents. The value of farm commodities actually consumed on the farm amounts to 15.17 cents.

"This leaves an average of 39.85 cents of spendable income out of every farm dollar for the purchase of clothing, for education, insurance, doctors' bills, recreation, etc.

"Of all the annual purchases a farmer makes, he gets more for his money in buying fertilizer than from practically any other commodity. Farm records in the Middle West show that every dollar spent for fertilizer results in an average increased value of crops amounting to three and a half dollars as well as returning to the soil valuable mineral elements. Yet the price of fertilizer is lower than practically any commodity the farmer buys."

THESE FIGURES SHOW MORE WAYS THAN ONE TO HAVE PROSPERITY ON THE MONEY WE HAVE IN OUR LAND

YESSIR, FOLKS--FOR EVERY DOLLAR I SPEND ON SOIL CONSERVATION, I GET BACK INCREASED CROP VALUE AND I INSURE MYSELF AGAINST LOSS OF LAND VALUE ALSO!
